Personal data is any such information as may be required for the purpose of identifying a specific individual, be it directly or indirectly, e.g. first name(s), surname, home address, email address, date of birth, occupation/profession, bank account details, etc.

We shall make available to you free-of-charge any such personal data as may have been electronically saved by us with regard to you.

You are at liberty at any time to request correction, deletion and disabling of any such personal data as may have been electronically saved by us with regard to you.

We reserve the right, for the purpose and duration of examination of creditworthiness and as a means of assistance in preventing non-payment of amounts outstanding in our favour, to pass on to the business enterprise commissioned by us any such personal data relating to you as may be deemed necessary. Should we avail ourselves of this right, you will be notified of the name and address of the company whose services we have engaged.

For the purpose of execution of despatch of the goods, we shall be making available to Post, DPD and Dachser, whose services we shall be engaging, the personal data that they will require in relation to you.
